

Queen Elizabeth the II

- An amazing leader

Queen Elizabeth was born on 21 of April and she died on September 8, at Buckingham Palace. She was loved by many because she loved everyone no matter what and she also made sure that everybody got a say in what they wanted around the world. She was an amazing leader and she never gave up on anyone and always tried to be kind. People all around the world now remember her as a kind and loving person and Queen.

Early life

She was born at 17 Bruton Street in Mayfair, London. She didn't go to a school, instead she got taught by very experienced people such as Eton Henry Marten. She grew up with her mother, Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, father George VI and sister, Princess Margaret.

What she has overcome

She had to decide about marriage, religion and foreign politics at a very little age. But also she had to answer a lot of questions under pressure when she became the Queen. She became Queen at 25 because her father died and she was the older sibling out of her sister and her so the role of the Queen was handed down to her that is how she became the Queen of England and the world. She has also overcome a lot of hate by many but she always looked past the haters and always looked forward to her life.

Impact

She creates opportunities for young people, to preserve wildlife and the environment. It made a big impact for young people because she had made anyone think that they could do what they want to do with hard work and dedication.

Legacy

She has accomplished so many things including: Becoming Queen at 25 years old and celebrating the 25th anniversary or being Queen and many more. The last thing she did for the society was the transformation of culture and class; rapid technological expansion and socio-political change; the end of deference and a distinctive sense of Britishness. She has affected others and helped young people across the world in an amazing way.

Conclusion

Finally in conclusion she has done a lot to impact the world in an amazing way including helping all and giving everyone a say in what they want. When life seems hard, the courageous do not lie down and accept defeat; instead, they are all the more determined to struggle for a better future. It means that she wants no one to give up and always be excited for the future that is ahead of us.

"When life seems hard, the courageous do not lie down and accept defeat; instead, they are all the more determined to struggle for a better future."